A Note from the President

The 2014-2015 League year represents a tipping point for our organization in terms of member engagement, community impact, organizational culture, and financial health.

At the start of the year, I invited our members to “give each other an A” and to become a living example of women working together to affect positive change and support each other’s success. By creating a safe environment to take risks, innovate, and grow as civic leaders the impact of our work extends well beyond what is reflected in this annual report. What we created together will pay dividends for years to come as JLP members engage in a lifetime of civic leadership and voluntarism.

In the 12 months summarized here, we accomplished more than we imagined possible, exceeding nearly every goal we set for ourselves. We used our budget surplus to fund significant investments in our infrastructure for next year to continue improving our operational efficiency. We introduced a new level of transparency and shared accountability by reporting a dashboard of key metrics at every General Membership Meeting. We launched two entirely new fund development events which were wildly successful while growing existing events. We laid the foundation for future advocacy work on important issues in our community and received recognition for our efforts to stop human trafficking. We reimagined the member experience and made time to treat each other as human beings instead of “human doings.” We strengthened ties with our community partners and granted strategic gifts from our Endowment Fund to address urgent needs and create lasting impact throughout our community. And we declared our commitment to diversity and inclusion, grappling with big questions about the role of our organization in the 21st Century. Finally, we had a lot of fun doing it, forging bonds among us that add meaning and zest to our lives.

Thank you for entrusting this amazing organization to my care this past year and for your role in helping to make our 105th year such a success.

With gratitude,

Cat Parkay

President, 2014-2015

Annual Meeting

On April 22, 2015, we formally installed our incoming Officers and Board of Directors for the 2015-2016 League year and recognized our members for their outstanding service. Our membership also formally voted to urge the incoming Board to consider adopting an updated reaching out statement to reflect recent changes to AJLI's diversity and inclusion efforts.
